UK Outlook for Tuesday 8 Jun 2021 to Tuesday 22 Jun 2021:
Confidence is low for this period, but it is most likely that largely dry weather will continue across much of the UK, especially towards the south and east. Some spells of more unsettled weather bringing rain and strong winds remains a possibility which would be most likely towards the north and northwest. Temperatures are likely to be near average overall, with warm days but still some chilly nights.
